Highway Tax Evasion

AROUND the army's Pentagon, largest office building in the world, winds a network of modernistic macadam highways which have now become the center of one of the capital's most interesting hush-hush income tax scandals.

For the men who built the highways, W. J. "Doc" Hardy and F. McKenzie Davison of the Arlington Asphalt company, apparently did not feel they should pay full taxes on the profits they made from Uncle Sam. In fact, treasury agents who finally caught up with the pair, estimate that they quick-changed Uncle Sam out of $500,000.

Probably that explains a yacht, a home in Florida and a new mansion in Virginia.

However, the two Virginia constructors have been frantically pulling wires on Capitol Hill, especially with Virginia's Sen. Harry E. Byrd, and for a time it looked as if their tax case was stalled.

Some of the tricks used by the Virginia asphalt kings to duck income taxes were just as devious as the cobweb of highways they built around the Pentagon.

For example, they made out checks for several thousand dollars to W. W. Thomas and S. M. Redd, contractors, who later gave T-men affidavits that they never received the checks.

What Hardy and Davison did was forge endorsements and cash the checks themselves, then deduct the amount of the checks from their income-tax returns.

Cadillacs and Mansion

The two kings of Virginia Asphalt also made out other false invoices and vouchers which they deducted from their income taxes, and juggled funds carelessly between their private accounts and the company's account. Both Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Davison received a weekly salary of $75 from Arlington Asphalt, though not seen working for the company.

Hardy also used workers, paid out of company funds, to help build his palatial new Virginia mansion; while Davison drives Cadillac and Lincoln automobiles, both owned by the company. He keeps another company Cadillac at his winter home in Miami. Queried about this, Davison replied:

"You'd be surprised at the company business we have in Florida."

To investigate Hardy and Davison, the bureau of internal revenue sent six agents simultaneously to grill key witnesses. As the T-men closed in, Hardy and Davison hurriedly hired a tax attorney, I. William Stempil, formerly of the bureau of internal revenue and who knew all six agents personally. But Stempil got nowhere.

Byrd Goes Into Reverse

Then the Arlington Asphalt owners pulled their ace card and called on Senator Byrd for help. J. W. Barton, partner in the Subsidiary Coal company, boasted that Byrd would "fix" the case; but when this careless talk got out, Barton was called on the carpet by Hardy and Davison and a denial was issued.

That began a rash of strangely conflicting stories. When tax attorney Stempil learned Hardy and Davison had been seen going into Byrd's office, he admitted they had consulted Byrd about their tax troubles. Davison, however, said his call on Byrd had nothing to do with taxes.

Later, confronted with Stempil's statement that taxes were discussed with Byrd, Davison revised his statement and explained they had gone to see Byrd "principally about another matter," but had talked about the tax case.

Yet Byrd emphatically denied any knowledge of the case. Queried by this column about his talks with Hardy and Davison, the senator from Virginia snorted:

"I never met them, I never even heard of them."

Next day, however, Senator Byrd's office telephoned to say that the senator's memory had been bad, that he had talked with Hardy and Davison, though he refused to help them.

Treason Exposed!

On November 1, 1947, Drew Pearson exposed one of the strangest treason cases of the war—that of an air force lieutenant, Martin James Monti of St. Louis, who had stolen a U. S. plane, flown from India to Italy and deserted to the Germans. Thereafter, Pearson charged, Monti had enlisted in the elite SS corps and served in the Nazi army.

Pearson also revealed that Monti as of that date—November 1, 1947—was still in the U. S. army! Recently, however, Lieutenant Monti was formally indicted by a federal grand jury in New York on a charge of treason for becoming an officer in the elite SS corps.

In foreground, with home-made stop sign, is Mrs. H. B. Roberts, Cambrian Home and School Club chairman of traffic control; behind her, Mrs. R. W. Tonkin, club president. Mrs. E. D. Teele prepares to chaperon Warren Roberts, left, and Jimmy Fossum across Highway 17 to Cambrian School.

The Campbell Press Shopping News will make its first appearance Wednesday, Nov. 17 and will be issued every Wednesday thereafter. This service is being brought to the people of Campbell for the convenience of the shoppers of this area and the same ads will appear in the regular edition of the Campbell Press which will come out every Thursday.

No local news will be carried in the shopper but the classified ads will appear in both papers. A minimum of 2500 copies is being planned for the new publication and will be delivered to every home in this area either by carriers or through the post office box holders.

Advertisers will welcome the new Shopping News which will give them more extensive coverage of their advertising with the combination ad space. Look for the new Shopping News on Wednesday.

At the same time the owners of the Campbell Press wish to announce that with the purchase of a new Kluge automatic press, they are now in a position to offer first class job printing of all kinds, delivered on time. This is a service which has long been needed in this area and will eliminate the necessity of Campbell business men running into San Jose or Los Gatos for their high class printing jobs at a moderate price. This press is the latest thing in high speed press equipment and no job, big or small, is too difficult for it.

Thus with the addition of the Campbell Press Shopping News to serve the shopper with every known bargain in this area and the Kluge press to serve the business men of Campbell, the new owners are doing their best to serve Campbell interests.

Cambrian Mothers to Stop Traffic for Children Monday

"Traffic must stop for our children" was the cry heard from mothers of Cambrian school children who twice daily risk their lives crossing busy Higwhway No. 17 in front of the school. Commuters to and from Los Gatos and San Jose daily whizz along the highway heedless of the groups of anxious children gathered by the side of the road waiting for a "break" in traffic before dashing across.

Members of the Cambrian Home and School club stated that they had exhausted every appeal to state and county agencies in an effort to get traffic slowed down and stopped for their children. An effort was made to establish their own school patrol, but State authorities told the group that the highway is a state route and traffic can't be stopped. School warning signs are consistently ignored.

Monday the scene will be changed. Mothers of the children are preparing large STOP signs mounted on long wooden handles and are prepared to make their own illegal, but necessary effort to stop traffic so that the children may safely pass across. If necessary the mothers will block the highway waving their signs and will keep up their blockade in the morning before school and in the afternoon when school dismisses, for as long as is needed. To this end a letter has been sent to Gov. Warren by Mrs. H. B. Roberts, chairman of traffic control for the club.

The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Governor:

"We need some help and advice from you in cutting through the red tape we have encountered in trying to establish adequate protection for our children crossing State Highway 17 to their school.

"Our school, known as the Cambrian School, is approximately half way between San Jose and Los Gatos on Highway 17. The school zone is marked by a standard W-33 sign and advance pavement markings. We are endeavoring to establish a schoolboy patrol with hand stop signs and portable road signs to safeguard our children in crossing this busy highway. We have contacted State Highway authorities, who are interested in our predicament, but are apparently by law fundamentally interested in the flow of traffic and not its slow-down.

We have contacted county authorities who say they are powerless as it is a state highway, so we get the old buck-passing and still we have no protection for our children.

"The things that we want, as property owners and mothers and fathers are as follows:

"1. Rigid enforcement of the speed laws governing our school zone and adequate punishment for those who violate it. This is not done at present.

"2. Larger signs marking the zones, with larger advance pavement markings and portable markings indicating the zone to be placed in the center of the highways during the necessary hours.

"3. Permission to stop the traffic for our children to cross to the school when enough children have accumulated to justify it. However, we feel that the safe crossing of our children takes precedence over the importance of any car on this highway.

"Would you please use your good office to help us reach the authorities who can help us. The mothers of this area who are members of the Home and School Club, have resolved to have action in the matter. We plan on stopping the traffic by force if conditions continue as they are. We know that a conviction for obstructing traffic would be impossible under these circumstances. We are determined that the Cambrian School crossing will be noted for the courtesy the drivers give to our children and noted for the penalties against those who violate it."

BPWC Plans Xmas Party For December 8th

Mrs. Nina Blakely, second vice-president of the Los Gatos chapter, spoke before members of the Campbell Business Professional Women's club Wednesday night on "Federation Orientation."

Mrs. Blakely stated that the BPWC clubs were originally organized to "make business women help toward a better world." Although the club is a non-political organization, the members have lately been urged to take an active part in politics.

The Los Gatos member stressed that three things are important in the club organization: to keep up the membership, plan the budget, and have an active publicity chairman.

Mrs. Winnifred Goodell is president of the local organization which is planing a Dec. 8 Christmas party to which members will bring toys for each other. At the end of the evening these toys will be collected and given to a children's home or hospital.

In Memoriam

THIS ARMISTICE DAY, as we honor the dead of the first World War, we cannot but think too our comrades whose blood stained the battlefields of the earth in the second and even more terrible conflict a few short years ago. These heroes are only now returning from foreign soil to find at last a final resting place in their beloved America.

This is more than a home coming and a reburial. It is a kind of resurrection. It is as though our dead have risen from their graves to remind us, the living, that we must guard well the freedom for which they perished, that we must dedicate ourselves anew to the sacred task for which "they gave the last full measure of devotion."

That task is the defense of the American way of life. These slain heroes knew well the meaning of democracy. They came from all levels in society, they were Protestants and Catholics and Jews, their skins were black and brown and white, their parents brought with them the rich cultures of many lands. Yet they were all Americans and together they lived in brotherhood, enjoying the blessings and protections of a free government. Together they gave their lives so that freedom might endure for all mankind.

But their dream is not yet fulfilled. In a world wracked by poverty, disease, and despair, too many people are losing sight of human rights. Their vision is clouded to everything but immediate needs —food, clothing and fuel for the bitter months ahead. Out of this uncertainty and discontent the demagogues may well rise up again, dazzling the hungry with glittering promises and beating the old war drums with vicious talk of "master" races and "inferior" peoples.

But we of the American Legion are determined that the victory our buddies gave their lives to win shall not be made a mockery. We are resolved to restore this shattered world so that its weary people may once more know peace and justice and good will. Only then can our heroes enjoy true and eternal rest.

Scenery Sets For 'Smilin' Through' Now Under Way

The Footlighters, Campbell Little Theater Club, devoted their November meeting to committee reports and final plans for the coming production of the famous romantic comedy, "Smilin Through," which is scheduled for December 9 and 10. The group met Tuesday, Nov. 9, at their club room under the leadership of their new president, Mrs. Ida Levenberg.

The elaborate setting, including a complete house and garden scene, is progressing nicely under the direction of Ethan Lanphear and Earl Clark. The problem of costuming a wedding scene of the late 1800's is occupying the attention of a committee under Mrs. Ida Levenberg. Hundreds of paper flowers are being made by Mrs. Ruth Gould and her property committee.

A preview of the first two acts was annouced by director Dean Chamberlin for Wednesday evening, Nov. 10.

Gregory Parker, who has formerly played comedian roles has been cast in the part of the rejected suitor, Jeremiah Wayne, one of the more difficult parts of the play. True to form he is assuming his responsibility with ease and it looks as though his interpretation will be one of the high points of the production. Gregory is employed by the Cupertino Hardware Store.

Thais Ackerman has the major female role in the second act in the personality of Moonyeen Clare. Thais has appeared in many of the Footlighter plays and does a supreme job in all characterizations.

Following the general meeting refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. C. David Baxter.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

Husband Due From Germany In Near Future

Mrs. Clara Huber Brass is expecting her husband here from Germany in the near future. Mrs. Brass formerly studied music in Toledo, Ohio, graduated from the Toledo Conservitory of Music, taught music there and later studied in Europe. Mrs. Brass returned from Germany about a year ago and began teaching piano lessons in June, 1948. She was a pupil of Prof. Xaxer Scharwenka of Berlin, and Karl Leimer, teacher of Walter Gieseking while studying in Europe.

Mrs. Brass, having lived in Europe for quite some time, married there and went through some of the bombing raids during the war. She has just received a lift van with a Steinway grand piano and some furniture which survived bombardment in Germany. Jack Anderson, our Congressman, has helped considerable in getting Mrs. Brass' German born husband permission to enter the United States and make his home here.

Mrs. Brass is now living with her brother, Mr. C. E. Huber on Hamilton St. in this city.

Penn State Clan Gathered Monday Night

Pennsylvanians got together last Monday night when fifty-five former members of the Eastern state gathered together in the Campbell Methodist church for a gab fest and exchange of notes about the state where the mercury drops below zero in winter.

Many Campbellites claim former residence in Pennsylvania, and found the meeting very enjoyable. Mrs. T. F. Weaver of San Jose is president of the group which plans to recruit even more members for its next meeting in the near future. Pumpkin pie with whipped cream topped off the evening.

Muni Fare Boost Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO—By a vote of six to four, the Board of Supervisors has rejected the proposal of the Public Utilities Commission to increase fares on the city's municipally owned street railway from three tokens for a quarter to a straight ten cents.

Mayor Elmer E. Robinson has consistently opposed the fare increase in the face of the Commission's contention a bigger tax subsidy would be required by the Municipal Railway. The Mayor has insisted on modernization and improvement of service before any fare increase was instituted.

Round Table

Scouters are reminded that the next Campbell District Round Table meets at 7:40 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 16, at Campbell Congregational Church, sponsors of Troop 31.

Members of the District Round Table are Scoutmasters, Assistant Scoutmasters, and Troop Committee representatives.

At this meeting the final plans will be laid for the Court of Honor to be held at the High School auditorium the following evening.

The fathers are also planning on erecting a handball court. Work on the program will be done under the chairmanship of Charlie Long and Cecil Rose.

ARMISTICE DAY

Thirty years ago this week, the roar of guns and the rattle of musketry were stilled as World War I clanged to an end. The United States observes as Armistice Day the day on which this significant milestone in mankind's progress was passed.

Though another and more terrible world war has occurred since then and still another looms frightfully ahead, the American people pause each year to recall the brave men who fell thirty and more years ago in that war in the mistaken belief they were "making the world safe for democracy."

Subsequent events have shown that, apparently, no individual, no group, no nation can, definitely and permanently, "make the world safe for democracy." The price of democracy and freedom is eternal vigilance and a continuing willingness to defend them. That is the lesson drawn on Armistice Day, a holiday now thirty years old.

HARRY TRUMAN—A REAPPRAISAL

Political writers and commentators, politicians and citizen Joe Doakes are all taking a closer look at the man who just won an election which it wasn't possible for him to win.

Harry Truman now takes on somewhat the stature of a superman as far as his achievements in the rough-and-tumble political arena are concerned. He can also be credited with remarkable courage, amazing energy and unusual modesty.

But basically, all the factors for which he was opposed still stand. His election is not expected to make the President any more adept in the handling of foreign affairs—a field in which he has been most inept when he has taken a hand personally.

On the domestic front the President's demands for compulsory health insurance, for outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and for a return to economic controls will still be met with widespread opposition.

In addition to these things his association with the notorious Pendergast machine in Kansas City, and his general inadequateness as an executive remain unchanged.

As citizens, however, the American people will support Mr. Truman in all constructive measures. But with typical independence they will oppose all proposals which they conscientiously feel would not work to the ultimate benefit of the nation as a whole, however sincerely the President may feel to the contrary.

Great will be the demands on Mr. Truman in the next four years. We earnestly hope that he can measure up to them.

THEY ALSO RAN

We're still waiting breathlessly to hear how many votes some of the other presidential candidates got. There were other candidates, you know, besides Truman, Dewey, Wallace and Thurmond.

No less than seven other parties had nominees running — well, anyway, walking. These were the American Vegetarian, Christian Nationalist, Greenback, Socialist, Socialist Labor, Socialist Worker and Prohibition.

Governor Dewey had plenty of company.

WHAT HOLIDAY APPROACHES? . . . Joan Conger, 15, and sister Judy, eight, are rushing the season a bit as they visit the huge turkey ranch near Wheaton, Md. They had their pick of 7,500 turkeys, and took a big white live one home to live in their back yard until Thanksgiving Day.

Grub Control Time Is Here

During this time of year, livestock men will notice swellings appearing on the backs of their cattle. This indicates warble or grub infection, and to date, science has developed a treatment at this stage to control them. With all due respects to DDT and other insecticides, the fly stage of the grub cannot be treated to safeguard against warble infection. By killing the grub in the backs of the cattle, the life cycle of this insect can be stopped and therefore stamp out this costly parasite.

Through tests over the United States, areas can eliminate warbles from the ranges and corrals by cooperative treatment of cattle through the grub stage. One outstanding sample is a Utah Valley where, after cooperative action of all livestock raisers, this costly insect was eliminated entirely from the area after two years of treatment. It is hoped that many dairymen and livestockmen who have the facilities and equipment will treat their cattle as soon as these swellings start to show.

Field demonstration on spraying will be held by the Agricultural Extension Service and the complete story told. From 3 to 6 treatments will be needed now that we know that the northern type grub has invaded our area. These treatments should be at approximately 25 day intervals as the grubs come in waves, and after the first treatment, the second, third and following treatments should be applied at the above prescribed intervals.

Rotenone products, of which there are many commercial types on the market, are the best eradicators of grub. Benzine hexachloride may have some use, however, more information is needed before general recommendations can be given.

If you have a small number of cattle, two to ten head, these can be treated with a brush and sprinkled with powder into the open holes on the swellings; however, more cattle should be treated with a spray using 300 to 350 lb. pressure and keeping the nozzle approximately 7 to 10 inches from the back of the animal.

A mimeographed bulletin is available upon request from the local Agricultural Extension Service, Room 201 Post Office Bldg., San Jose, Columbia 3866, says Assistant Farm Advisor M. S. Beckley.

Herd Improvement Program Pays Off

The Dairy Herd Improvement Associations are paying off for California dairymen, M. S. Beckley, University of California Agricultural Extension Service, says California cows are leading the nation with the largest production in both milk and fat of all the states reporting under the program.

A report of the Bureau of Dairy Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture just released and quoted by Beckley shows 111,106 California cows in standard dairy-herd improvement tests averaged 9319 pounds of milk and 378 pounds of fat. Average for all the cows reported from all states was 8638 pounds of milk and 348 pounds of fat. Twenty per cent of the total number of cows reported were from California herds.

Significance of the Dairy Herd Improvement program to the dairy industry is shown in the increased production over the years. In 1930 the average production of all cows reported was 7642 pounds of milk and 303 pounds of fat. This shows an average increase of nearly 1000 pounds of milk for each cow in the testing program.

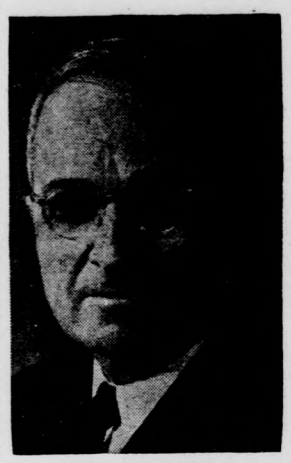
U. S. Elects Truman, Democratic Congress

"Now maybe you would like to know why I have made this fight for the people. I will try to tell you. It is a matter of the things I believe in."

President Harry S. Truman spoke those words to the nation's voters on the night before election. And he believed hard enough to get himself re-elected to another term in the White House.



He fought and won

Perhaps he made a wish on a star, too; but in the end it was his own dogged, courageous fight that won him what amounted to a mandate to serve.

His 371 speeches and 31,500 miles of campaign travel, his will to win, his unflagging conviction that he would win and finally the justification by the people of his confidence made Mr. Truman's re-election a truly amazing political phenomenon.

He is President today despite the political experts, despite the public opinion polls, despite the lethargy and lack of support within his own Democratic party and despite all the logic that was advanced to show that a Republican administration was needed for the good of the nation.

Upset the Dope.

What happened? How did Harry Truman manage to upset the dope? Following the initial shock of sheer nation-wide disbelief that he could have made it, it became apparent that there was not one but a combination of several factors operating unobtrusively in the President's favor.

The surprisingly heavy vote was a vital point. It has been axiomatic for a long time in the U. S. that as the number of voters increases so do the chances of the Democratic party.

High prices, high rents, the housing shortage—all of which Mr. Truman emphasized strongly in connection with his assaults on the "second worst" 80th congress aided in turning the people away from a Republican administration.

Organized labor concentrated on getting its members out to vote against members of congress who had supported the Taft-Hartley law, and that circumstance redounded to the President's benefit.

The fact that virtually no one realized—with the possible exception of Mr. Truman and a few of his loyal subordinates—was that the tide of the campaign had turned in the last two weeks before the election.

Last Lap Drive.

Mr. Truman's slugging, earthy drive during the last three weeks before November 2, and conversely, Dewey's insistence upon maintaining the bland, high-level tone to his campaign brought the President a lot of votes.

Finally, the farm states did not come in nearly as strongly Republican as they had been expected to. Mr. Truman had succeeded in planting a fear, in his Midwest campaigning, that the GOP would do away with farm support prices.

Thus, at 11:30 a. m. (EST) on November 3, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey conceded the election to President Truman, shortly after the pivotal states of Ohio, Illinois and California had definitely gone Democratic.

What can the nation expect from the next four years of Democratic government under President Truman?

Foreign Policy Stays.

U. S. foreign policy will remain basically unchanged, keeping as its mainspring the European Recovery Program. As a matter of fact, it would have retained its status quo under a Republican administration, too. But in any event it is reasonable to assume that most American voters cast their ballots not so much on the basis of foreign policy as on domestic issues.

Whether or not much, if anything, will be done about the Taft-Hartley act is more of a question than it seems.

In the first place, although the Democrats have a nominal majority in both houses of congress, it remains to be seen if they will have a dominating workable majority with enough strength, for instance, to repeal or amend the law.

Also, some Democratic congressmen are not convinced that the Taft-Hartley law is as black a thing as it has been painted.

One of the first demands that President Truman and the Democratic 81st congress will get from the people will be to do something about high prices and inflation. Action along this line probably will take the form of price controls—perhaps wage controls as well. Mr. Truman is likely to try again to get congress to pass the 10-point anti-inflation legislation he first elucidated a year ago.

The Splinter Parties

Neither Henry Wallace's Progressives nor J. Strom Thurmond's Dixiecrats turned up with a decisive effect on the election. The total impact on the national electorate of Wallace's "love everybody, including Russia" philosophy was extremely small. He polled only slightly more than a million votes, made no great inroads in any state.

Thurmond and the southern state rights party carried four states, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina, proving that the Democrats can win an election without a completely solid South.

Truman Receives 304 Electoral Votes to Win

During the dramatic early hours of the election returns, electoral votes seesawed back and forth between Governor Dewey and President Truman, changing as the tide of popular votes from each of the states was tabulated.

In the final compilation, President Truman garnered a total of 304 electoral votes, 38 more than the 266 which were necessary for him to be elected.

Governor Dewey collected 189 electoral votes and J. Strom Thurmond drew the Dixiecrats votes of Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina which totaled 38. Wallace failed to get a single vote.

Tabulated below are the electoral returns by states:

Bucs Meet Mt. View There Friday 30's to Play at 6

Campbell High School's 130 and Varsity football teams travel to Mt. View to meet the Mt. View Eagles Friday evening. The 130 game is scheduled to start at 6 p.m.

The 130 team, coached by Steve Casaleggio, employs the single wing formation and will be out for its first win of the season.

he Eagle Varsity was an unknown team until they upset the strong Los Gatos Wildcats in a well-played game two weeks ago. The passing of Ray Gonzales, who completed 16 out of 26 passes against Los Gatos, will probably be Mt. View's offense against the Bucs.

Campbell, who lost a close contest to the Fremont Indians on Oct. 31 will be out to make up for this 19 to 13 defeat. The Bucs, coached by Art Swenson and Bill Perry, have improved their offense by adding the T-formation to the single-wing. This will be a double threat to their opponent. Bob Pracna will be in the quarterback spot to handle the T-formation and Del Ambler will run from the tail-back spot on the single wing.

The probable starting lineup for the Buc Varsity will be in the line: Jess Holt, LE; Pete Young, LT; Gene Holt, LG; Hal Taylor, C; Arch Duarte, RG; Ron Roeske, RT; and Dud Herschback. Starting in the backfield will probably be Bob Pracna, Q; Del Ambler, LH; Ray Carr, RH, and Bruce Abernathy.

FOOD, CLOTHING TO BE SENT BY WSCS OVERSEAS

Over 300 pounds of food and a similar amount of clothing was brought to the Methodist parsonage in response to the W.S.C.S. announcement of their plan to send Christmas packages of food and clothing to England, France and Germany. The parcels were equally divided among the three countries with Mrs. Rose E. Hanger taking charge of the packages to England, Mrs. Henry Quetin in charge of the French parcels and Mrs. Spruett in charge of the German packages. Numerous contributions of money were also received to be used for the project.

Scout Troop 31 Toy Drive For Needy In Progress

Toys, Toys, Toys and still more toys are needed in the drive by Troop 31 in order to insure a happy Christmas for some under-privileged child. This Scout Troop has assumed the responsibility of collecting used toys to repair for Christmas giving—but they need the used toys. If you have a broken or outgrown toy in your garage attic or basement please dig it out and have it ready for the boys as they go their rounds collecting. Time of collection will be this week as well as next week and if you are not contacted please telephone Campbell 2119 or Campbell 3673 and a Scout will be dispatched to pick up your donation. You may also leave toys and games at the Campbell Congregational Church for this purpose. Toy Chairman is SPL Henry Ramp with Ron Gilpatrick, Gene Vargus, Hubert Vargus and Bill Plymale serving on the committee. However, all Scouts in the troop are collecting and our slogan is "Let's do our Christmas giving early this year."

In Memoriam World War I

Over in France they are sleeping,
Each one in his lowly bed,
Yet down thro' the years,
will go marching
The ranks of our Hero Dead.
They have gone from their lov'd Homeland,
From their mothers, their
sweethearts, their wives,
To march under Liberty's Banner
And have laid on her altar their lives.
They have gone from our sight
forever,
Yet still shall their martial
tread
Go echoing thro 'the halls of time,
Footsteps of our Hero Dead.

Art Mayo New District Scout Finance Chairman

At the Campbell District Scout Committee meeting held at the home of Chairman Laurance Hill, Art Mayo of the American Trust Co. was welcomed to the Committee, having offered to serve as District Finance Chairman, a post made vacant by the retirement from the Committee of W'. E. Weisendanger of the Moreland District. Mayo is a newcomer to the Campbell District, and his offer to serve on the Committee is greatly appreciated by both Scouts and Scouters.

Homer Hyde, District Advancement Chairman announced that the Court of Honor would be held at the High School Auditorium on Wednesday, November 17th. The highlight of the evening would be the presentation of the top Scouting honor, the Eagle award, to Noel Whaley of Troop No. 31, and Senior Scout Richard Sisemore of No. 2 Explorer Post. The public is cordially invited to attend this function.

Ed Dalzell, District Commissioner of Cubbing reported that thanks to the generous response of the public, the Cub Pack No. 9 Cake Sale held at Madefi's store had resulted in a welcome addition to the Cub Pack treasury.

Scout Executive C. D. Bartlett told the Committee that on account of the increased interest in Cubbing and Scouting activities his present staff, and the local Organization and Extension Chairman, Joe Gomes, were finding it difficult to maintain schedules and attend all meetings necessary for the organizing of new troops, and review applications for Troop charter renewals, and volunteer workers were urgently needed for this work and to assist in the preliminary organization meetings.

Already numerous youngsters in the district are losing an opportunity to enjoy the fun of Scouting on account of this lack of help. There are many men deeply concerned about the increase in juvenile delinquency, and wish they could actively participate in helping combat the problem. Here is an opportunity to do something about it, and have the satisfaction and pleasure of making a wish come true. The duties are simple.

George Jeffers, District Commissioner, will be glad to explain the simple requirements of this work. If you are wondering what to do with a couple of free evenings why not employ them to good advantage by helping with this worthwhile project. You'll enjoy the adventure of working with some fine young fellows and at the same time accomplish something towards your own as well as community and youth development.

S. C. County Relief Rolls Grow

Santa Clara County's relief roll included 7711 persons for September, 1948, compared with 6850 for September, 1947, California Taxpayers' association said today. The figures do not include people receiving state unemployment or disability payments.

The September, 1948, relief rolls of the county included 4444 needy aged persons, 209 needy blind people, 1396 dependent children, and 1662 general county indigents. Relief payments for the month totalled $380,189 for these four kinds of relief.

Over the state as a whole, 304,663 people were on the relief rolls for September, 1948, compared with 264,076 during September, 1947.

During September of the current year, the statewide relief rolls included 192,186 needy aged people, 7696 needy blind, 44,857 dependent children, and 59,924 general county indigents. Relief payments for September, 1948, totalled $15,062,502.

For September, 1947, the statewide relief rolls showed 176,432 needy aged, 6601 needy blind, 32,577 dependent children, and 48,466 county indigents, with a total of relief payments for the month amounting to $12,953,044.

"The increasing dependence of people on public relief is clearly shown in the comparison of numbers of people receiving relief for the same month this year and last," the Taxpayers' group pointed out, expressing concern about the growing burden on taxpayers for the care of the needy during so-called prosperous times.

"The current situation calls for utmost care in the administration of relief if too heavy demands are not to be made on the taxpayers to provide for those in need."

County of Santa Clara Leads In Driver Training

Automobile driving instructions with dual control cars is being given to students in four Santa Clara County high schools again this term, it was announced today by Linwood Lyons, Safety Coordinator for Santa Clara County schools, who works out of the office of Dr. O. S. Hubbard, Superintendent of Schools. This is the second school term of this behind-the-wheel training, and thus Santa Clara County retains its position as one of the leading counties of the state in this phase of traffic safety education.

The four schools which are continuing the course in driver education and training, instituted last term, are Gilroy Union High School, Los Gatos Union High School, Campbell Union High School, and Fremont Union High School in Sunnyvale.

The course of instruction in all four schools, Mr. Lyons stated, meets the standards set up by the American Automobile Association, which require a minimum of eight hours of behind-the-wheel training for each student. The actual driving course is supplemented by classroom work in principles and practices of highway safety, motor vehicle law, highway courtesy and other factors of safe driving. Text material for this phase of instruction is furnished by the California State Automobile Association.

At Campbell Union High School Principal Laurance J. Hill reports that this course is being given to 168 students, with a dual control Pontiac, loaned by Pontiac Division of General Motors. The instructor of the course is M. F. Hughes.

At Los Gatos Union High School, Superintendent Prentiss Brown reports that instruction is being given to 85 students, with a dual control Ford loaned by Paul Swanson, Los Gatos Ford dealer, and president of the school's board of trustees. This course is also supervised by Mr. Lyons.

At Fremont Union High School, in Sunnyvale, Pricipal A. C. Stevens, Jr., reports the course being given to 64 students with a dual control Chevrolet, loaned by the Raines Chevrolet Company, Sunnyvale Chevrolet dealer. The course instructor is Doug Pederson.

To meet the need for trained instructors in automobile driving, San Jose State College held an Institute on Driver Education and Training for high school teachers during August, under the direction of Dr. Thomas W. MacQuarrie, President of the college, and Dr. H. A. Sotzin, Director of Industrial Arts. The course, attended by 58 high school teachers from counties throughout northern and central California, was instructed by Mr. Lyons.

4-H Club News

By GEORGE D. SHAMBROOK
Assistant Farm Advisor

The election of Chester Reynolds as president of the Madrone 4-H Club highlighted the meeting of that young farmer group this month. Young Reynolds was elected by his fellow club members as a result of outstanding home projects. The project he has been carrying for the past two years is 225 white leghorn hens. He started with them as day old baby chicks and has raised them to their present high producing level.

In addition to Reynolds as president, the club elected Lloyd Laswell as vice-president; Walter Walsh, secretary; Harold Laswell, treasurer, and Philip Rolla, reporter.

The club awarded a gold seal to be placed on their charter, which was earned last year. A high percentage of project completion was one of the main factors that was considered in the awarding of this year's seal, which is the highest award the University of California can make to a local 4-H Club.

The October meeting was held at the home of Caesar Rolla. Mrs. Rolla served refreshments for the boys after their meeting had adjourned.

Harold Sterns, representing the San Jose Rotary Club, presented the members of the Mayfair 4-H Club with 4-H Club caps, T-shirts and sweater emblems at the club's October meeting. The meeting was held in the Berryessa Grammar School and was attended by parents and friends of the young farmers and homemakers.

The awards were made to the 4-H Club members who completed their projects. The Rotary Club is sponsoring the Mayfair Club, which is the youngest 4-H Club in Santa Clara County.

George Fontaine, local leader of the youth group, installed the officers who had been elected at the September meeting. The officers installed were Eleazer Morales, president; Geraldine Silva, vice-president; Nicky Galiottao, secretary; Beverly Moore, treasurer; Eleanor Iantosca, reporter and song leader.

Any boy or girl in the Mayfair-Berryessa area who wants to join this rapidly growing club may get information by calling George Fontaine, Ballard 4599-W; Mrs. Frank Pyle, Ballard 2315-J, or George Shambrook, Agricultural Extension Service, Columbia 3866.

RUSSIA'S FARM TROUBLES

RUSSIA is having her troubles with 240,000 collective farms. It seems that there are too many "gentlemen farmers," always ready to tell other people how to till the soil, but not anxious to put a hand to a plow themselves.

There are about 41,000,000 persons employed by the collective farms of Russia, and twice this year the Soviet council of ministers has found it necessary to issue orders to purge Red agriculture of bureaucrats. The decrees have ordered the collective farms to get rid of surplus assistant farm directors, bookkeepers, timekeepers, clerks and other "chair-warmers."

The Russian newspapers Pravda and Izvestia admit that the situation is so bad that in some areas speculators live in towns and make a fine living by buying and selling. They gain immunity from the police by posing as collective farm members.

According to the latest decree, farm administrative personnel are to be credited only for the days they actually work. Farms are ordered to require such persons to do field work as well as office work, and to give them quotas for field work. At times when the need for labor is greatest, all office workers must go out to the fields to help, it says.

The U. S. airlift to Berlin isn't the only thing Joe has to worry about. Russia's collective farm system is in a mess. The trouble? A nasty case of bureaucracy.

In the council's order, ceilings are placed on the number of "trudodni" (farm pay units, one workday being equivalent to one-half to two "trudodni") that may be assigned for payment of administrative and service personnel. The largest farms, having a payroll of 100,000 "trudodni" per year, may not assign more than three per cent of the total to administration and service.

In a study of the operations of Soviet collective farms, Dr. Naum Jasny of the Stanford food research institute says that the succession of orders and the wording of the decisions indicate that the situation, with respect to violations of the law, rather than improving, is becoming worse.

Some abuses are merely efforts to improve personal incomes, says Dr. Jasny, but others are an inherent part of the whole Russian collective farm system.

As the years pass, it becomes increasingly apparent that communism does much more than rob the farmer of his land. It slowly crushes the traditional pride and integrity of the men who love the land.

PARTNERSHIP IN MARRIAGE

HERE'S a story of real partnership in marriage, and a marriage that is a successful partnership is not headed for the rocks.

After the late war, three veterans started in business together. Their names: Maj. Marvin G. Schmid, Col. Taylor H. Snow and Maj. Adrian L. Fasse. Did the help shortage hinder them? Well, you can just bet that it did—for a time. Shortage of materials loom up as an obstacle? Naturally, but our story doesn't deal with that, nor with the shortage of offices and furnishings, for they settled the former by buying their own building, and they managed to pick up the necessary furnishings.

D. Carnegie

But they couldn't even by dint of hook and crook settle everything to their satisfaction. For one thing, they didn't have enough salesmen nor office help. So Mrs. Schmid took a course in bookkeeping under the direction of a certified public accountant and the bookkeeping problem was settled. Next, up stepped Mrs. Snow saying "I just love selling," and then proceeded to prove it. But there were still letters to be written. Inasmuch as Mrs. Fasse knew shorthand and typing, she took charge there, leaving her two small children for someone else to care for during the hours she spent in the office.

Naturally, you'll want to know what they made and sold: gadgets, clothes lines that required no clothespins. They also started with a special dustpan, but found that it infringed on the patent of someone else, so that was dropped.

During her selling experience, Mrs. Snow learned that housewives needed a specially designed spice cabinet, in order to save the bother of scrambling around for some small can or jar when hurried. (You see this was something a woman seller could talk about with enthusiasm.) It was discovered that a medicine cabinet was badly in demand. So with a few changes in the spice cabinet, a medicine cabinet was turned out.

It is hardly necessary to add that with such cooperation and enthusiasm, this company's business is now booming.

Girl Scouts Help In T-B Seal Sale

Girl Scouts last week completed the gigantic task of folding 140,000 sheets of Christmas Seals which will be placed on sale Monday, November 22 with the mailing of 70,000 letters to all parts of the county.

This year's Seal features a small blond boy in red pajamas, sitting on the floor, hands clasped about his knees, and gazing into a blazing fireplace over which three empty stockings hang.

At Seal Sale headquarters yesterday, Dr. C. Gerald Scarborough said that the Seal's designer, Barry Bart of South Kent, Conn., painted the picture after he had watched his young nephew hurry silently downstairs one Christmas Eve and set up his vigil near the fireplace. Mr. Bart is a well-known American artist and illustrator. Some of his works hang in Luxembourg, Nantes and Avignon museums.

"This year's brightly-colored red, yellow and blue Seal will be particularly decorative on Christmas cards and packages," Scarborough said. Proceeds from the sale will be used for the 1949 tuberculosis control program of the Santa Clara County Tuberculosis Association, Scarborough pointed out.

FLOOD FIGHTERS
How telephone people plan far ahead of emergencies to keep calls going through

1. When wild water breaks its bonds, telephone men get on the job fast to size up the damage and begin plotting their repairs. At the same time, if long distance circuits have been cut, your calls will already have been routed over other lines by the Traffic Control Bureau . . . often without your being aware of a delay.

2. Emergency materials like this are stored in special yards . . . set aside and reserved especially for disasters like floods and fires. They're assembled by fast-working crews and rushed by rail, truck or air to spots near the damaged area. They're then sent on by truck . . . and sometimes by boat . . . to the individual repair jobs.

3. The trouble's remedied . . . often while the water is still high. Some calls will be going through in a remarkably short time. For although problems like major floods and forest fires are infrequent, telephone people are always prepared to make teamwork match emergencies . . . to keep your telephone working well for you.

4. Around the clock, day in and day out, your telephone is ready to take your voice where you want it to go . . . quickly and dependably. And telephone men and women take pride in keeping it that way. Sometimes it takes an emergency to demonstrate the real value of a service so often taken for granted.

PLOWING FOR SOIL CONSERVATION

TENS of thousands of farmers walked around in a Utopia of mechanical agriculture here for two days recently watching hundreds of workers concentrating on the job of rebuilding the soil-depleted Rio Grande college farm.

Assisted by practically every known type of farm tool and utilizing latest soil conservation techniques, the workers did almost 10 years' work in two days.

The demonstration was known as the Ohio Valley Second Frontier and billed as the world's largest educational soil-saving program. The event was designed to show farmers how to reap greater profits while rebuilding the soil needed to feed future generations.

Chief problem on this hilly Ohio valley farm was that excess water had been carrying away precious top soil. To remove this water, workers built diversion ditches and sod water outlets, laid thousands of feet of drainage tiles, and altered the course of a stream.

A second problem was the farm's soil which had been depleted by years of cultivation. In rejuvenating the soil, the workers tilled, limed, fertilized and seeded great areas. Pastures which had been overgrown with wild sage for generations were reclaimed.

One of the stars of the show was the jeep. Some 60 of them were scattered over the 300-acre farm doing a wide variety of jobs which attracted the attention of spectators and supervisors, most of whom were watching the jeep in action as a tractor for the first time. With the introduction during the past year of a hydraulic lift and a complete line of equipment and tools especially designed for use on the jeep, the jeep has come into its own as a tractor and source of motive power on the farm.

Farmers saw jeeps pulling various types of harrows, cultivators and plows. Several jeeps, equipped with post-hole diggers, were helping with fence building all over the farm, and one with a buzz-saw was sawing logs in the forest area. Others, with terracing blades, were engaged in back-filling trenches.

The two jeeps in this picture are preparing a sod waterway on the Rio Grande College farm during the recent Ohio Valley Second Frontier soil conservation demonstration. The ditch, which will be planted with grass when completed, is made by plowing the dirt up and over for the width of the ditch, repeating the process until the necessary depth is achieved.

The soil was very moist and spectators were interested, for example, in the ease with which a jeep with a bush and bog harrow worked a field despite a very heavy second growth of Sudan grass and these muddy conditions. Key to the harrow's successful operation in this moist, heavy growth is the lift which adds controlled working weight to the implement through downward hydraulic pressure.

Frank N. Farnsworth, Ohio director of agriculture, toured the farm and told the audience gathered around the speakers' platform they must abandon the practices of their fathers and grandfathers which have brought about the depletion of the nation's soil.

THE FARMER'S CORNER

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California).

THE FARMER'S CORNER ....

Very recently in Governor Warren's office at Sacramento a conference was held to determine whether Daylight Saving Time should be abandoned by proclamation, in advance of its automatic termination next January 15.

Representatives of business, industry and agriculture, exchanging views, found themselves in general agreement with the Governor that while Daylight Saving Time should be abandoned at the earliest possible moment, the best interests of the State require its retention through the next two months. Just how quickly Pacific Standard Time can be restored is problematical in view of several important factors developed at the hearing—factors which were not explained fully in the understandably brief press coverage of the proceedings.

Power company representatives made the point that Daylight Saving meant loss of money to them; industrialists reported they had found it almost impossible to shift to conserve power for many reasons—among them contracts with labor unions which would force them to pay overtime if changes from regular time were attempted.

Spokesmen for agriculture told the Governor that the losses in that industry were very real ones indeed. Daylight Saving actually reduces, either presently or potentially, the amount and quality of agricultural crops, at a time when harvesting labor is extremely hard to get in many areas. Pruning and other work in the orchards and fields is hampered by Daylight Saving Time in the winter. It means an hour less of work each day and this in turn means decreased production if there is not enough labor to go around.

An important point also stressed by farm leaders was that new wealth produced by agriculture each year is largely the basis for metropolitan productivity and, in order to preserve the economy of the State as a whole, it is obviously desirable to obtain the maximum agricultural yield at the lowest possible cost.

On the other hand, the necessity for retaining Daylight Saving Time rests on certain measurable factors. The total capacity of all electric generating plants in California is about five million kilowatts. For reasonably safe operation there should be a cushion between maximum capacity and maximum load. Power companies declared this reserve factor should range between 10 per cent and 15 per cent of capacity.

From Nov. 1 to next Jan. 15 California's peak load will be about 4,700,000 kilowatts or within 300,000 kilowatts of total capacity. Under Daylight Saving Time, according to the testimony, this indispensable cushion will be increased more than 100 per cent.

Under Standard Time the peak demand—between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.—would be so close to maximum capacity that there would be little or no reserve to cover emergencies, and sudden heavy drains on the system could constitute a grave danger of failure.

It should be explained that by "system" the engineers refer to the entire integrated system of electrical lines of all the major companies which are tied together in such a way that when there is an oversupply in one place, and an undersupply at another, power may be changed from one company's lines to another.

Since the whole power outlook is based upon an expectation of a normal rainfall between now and January 15, it is still possible that through water shortage the system could fail to meet peak demands by between 150,000 and 180,000 kilowatts.

Accusations against the power companies—by enemies of private ownership—have no factual foundation in this situation. No one could foretell in the '30's the tremendous population and industrial growth that burst upon California in the '40's with the advent of World War II. The power companies did anticipate increased demands and ordered the construction, reconstruction and enlargement of both steam and hydroelectric plants to keep ahead of the demand. These projects are well under way, and unless new strikes prevent the construction and delivery of materials, by the end of 1951 there will be a capacity of 7,693,000 kilowatts—an increase of slightly more than 50 per cent above last January's capacity.

At the termination of the Sacramento conference it appeared to be the consensus that Daylight Saving Time will have to be retained for an indefinite period, possibly even until January 15 when the law expires. Governor Warren expressed hope that Standard Time might be restored before January and certainly farmers of California hope his cautious optimism can be implemented. Various suggested procedures for adjustment in the time of use of electricity—thus leveling off the peak demand—are, of course, subject to differences of opinion. If these procedures can be reconciled, a method might be found to reinstate Standard Time more quickly than appears possible at present.

Flies Win Over DDT Insecticide

Houseflies are apparently building a resistance to DDT, according to James R. Douglas, who has been conducting a study of the problem for the University of California Division of Entomology and Parasitology.

M. S. Beckley, Assistant Farm Advisor, says reports have been received in this county for several months to the effect that DDT was no longer controlling houseflies satisfactorily.

Douglas is studying the probable causes of these failures—possible deterioration of DDT with age, conditions favorable to an abnormally large fly population, possibility the flies no longer rest on surfaces treated with DDT, and building of resistance to DDT.

Douglas has eliminated most of these possibilities in favor of the resistance theory. To test the apparent resistance of wild flies, some flies were obtained from a dairy west of Fresno. This dairy had been sprayed several times previously this year with DDT without much effect on the flies. These flies were used to raise another generation in the laboratory, and they turned out to be much more resistant to DDT than another strain that had been reared in the laboratory for 2½ years. About 45 to 50 times more DDT was reqquired to kill 95 per cent of the Fresno flies as was required to kill the same percentage of the laboratory flies.

M. S. Beckley, Assistant Farm Advisor, says some other chemicals are reported to give satisfactory fly control in some areas and he will be pleased to discuss these with dairymen or livestock men.

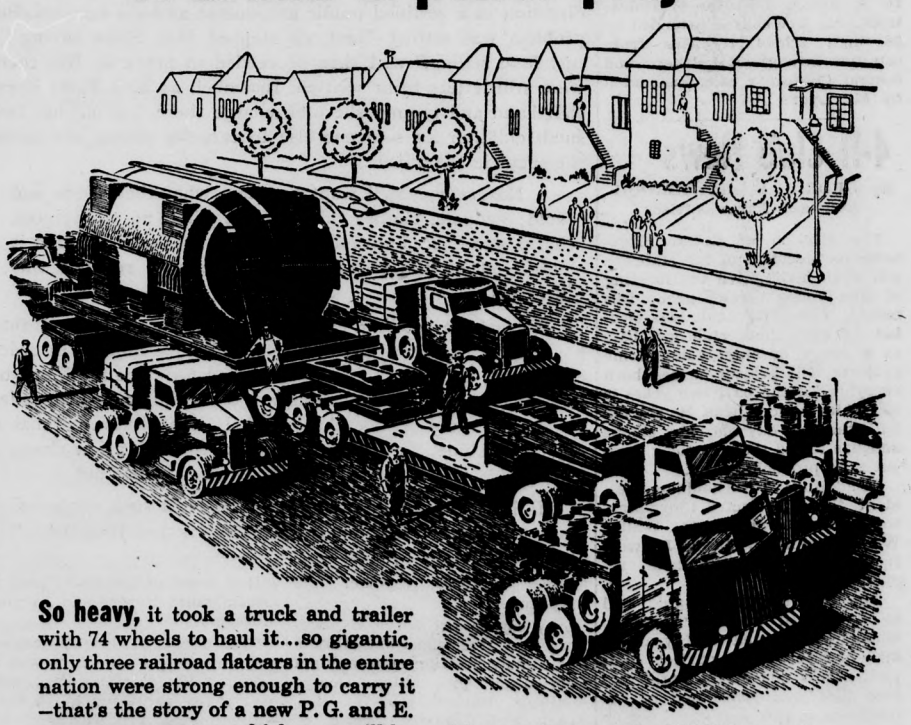
One of nation's heaviest freight loads for P. G. and E. power project



So heavy, it took a truck and trailer with 74 wheels to haul it...so gigantic, only three railroad flatcars in the entire nation were strong enough to carry it—that's the story of a new P. G. and E. generator armature which soon will be helping turn out 149,000 electrical horsepower for Northern and Central California. One of the biggest ever built, this armature weighs 356,000 pounds (178 tons) and is 24 feet long, 12½ feet high. You see it here on the last leg of a 3,000-mile journey from the East.

Its destination was P. G. and E.'s Station "P" at Hunters Point in San Francisco, now being expanded to a capacity of 360,000 horsepower as just part of America's biggest power building program.

Due on the line within the next few weeks, the new generators at Station "P" will bring our total additional power since V-J Day to more than half a million horsepower. And still more is on the way!

For the record

Since wartime controls were lifted P. G. and E. has already spent more than $300,000,000 building new power...

...to rush facilities that will add nearly 2 million horsepower to California...

...with a program that is creating more than 7,000 new jobs here.

Work never stops on our power-building program
